all day to volunteer militia organizations through-out the State to go to Darlington. Last night the three companies of Columbia refused to obey his orders and dishanded. To-day the Gordon Light Infantry declined to go, and sent the Governor a dispatch saying:

We are in sympathy with the citizens of Darling-ton in their purpose of the defence of their homes. The Sumter Infantry have refused to obey his orders. The Bishopville Company, of Sumter County, went to Darlington to-day, but afterward returned home and would not perform the work expected of them. The Fourth Brigade of Charleston, the largest and best equipped troop in the State, has been ordered to the front, and will not go. But several companies have moved on to Darlington, and are now on their way to that place. A company from Aiken County, the Adisor Rifles, of Orangeburg, a company from Clarendon County, and perhaps several other companies from adjoining counties, will reach the seat of war to-night or to-morrow. At Orangeburg to-day Dr. J. M. Stokes, who was defeated for Congress at the recent election by General Iselar, made a passionate harangue, and organized a company of 100 men, with a farmer as captain, to go to the support of Tillman.

In the mean time the people of Darlington are not idle. At 6 o'clock this evening there were 275 armed men at Darlington and vicinity ready to defend the town against all comers.

To-day at Florence and Timmonsville scouting parties have been scouring the country for the constables who made their escape yesterday. A dispatch from Darlington says: "The constables are surrounded at Syracuse. They are in the woods, and crowds are debating whether to starve them out or dash in and kill them. The constables offered to surrender last night if protection would be given and guaranteed them. Bright Williamson, who had run across them, said he could not guarantee them protection, but would ask his crowd if they would agree to protect them. When he returned, the constables had disappeared. Gaillard, Swan and Meakin escaped into North Carolina by a train, possibly being accompanied by one or two wounded constables. It is said that two or three constables who took part in the shooting have escaped toward Chesterfield. They are not being pursued." The constables in the swamp at Syracuse are certain to be capture i to-night. Two surrendered to-day. It is believed that all who are captured will be killed, and there are strong threats that McLendon, who was wounded in the fight yesterday, will be lynched to-night. The situation is exceedingly grave, and the state of the public mind is indescribable. At no time in the history of this State for the last thirty years has there been so great estrangement between its McLendon emptled his pistols before he semed to know that emptied his pistols before he semed to know that he was shot. Pepper was killed soon after the firing began. I do not know how many times he fired or whether he fired at all. I do not know who shot Pepper. The shooting was over in a few seconds. The first thing I knew of the ending of the fight was seeing the constables making for cover. They remained dong enough to see that they would be crowded, as couriers had started to the city at once for reinforcements. I was one of the five men detailed to stay in Parlington, and did not run off with the main "I was one of the five men detailed to stay in Darlington, and did not run off with the main body of the constables. I went to Colonel Pepper. He was lying on the ground, and as I bent over him he opened his eyes, smilled at me and closed them again. Then he gasped several times and died. He was shot through the heart, and the shot came from a 32-calibre pistol. I tried to get physicians to attend to McLendon, who had not fallen until the fight was over. I could not get any of them to aid him. About that time I noticed a crowd of citizens coming, and thought it about time to get away. Together with the two men who came here with me, I took the pistols which Pepper and McLendon had had and made Ly way to the home of Sheriff Scarborough. We stayed at his house until a deputy told us that the house was to be searched, and that we had better go to the woods. Then we went to the woods. This was about 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

"We lay in the woods until dark and then went back toward the town to see what we could learn. We saw that it would not be safe for us, and set off down the track of the Charleston, Sumter and Northern road. We walked the track all night without seeing any one. We reached Sumter about half-past 12 o'clock today, and went by rear streets until we saw the Chief of Police and surrendered to him. We told him that we had not had anything to eat since the day before, and he took us to a restaurant. The Sumter military were already under arms, and a detachment of them were stationed around the restaurant to protect us. The crowd which collected was driven away from in front of the restaurant. After we had eaten, we were taken to jall, and remained there until we were brought here on a special train."

"Do you know who of the constables were wounded in the fight?" McDonald was asked.

"No, I do not. I heard that Chief Gaillard's son was one of the men wounded."

When asked if he or his companions had seen any of the other constables after leaving Dar-

No, I do not. I heard that Chief Galliard's son was one of the men wounded."

When asked if he or his companions had seen any of the other constables after leaving Darlington, McDonold answered they had not, and did not have any idea where they were. He said that "Billy" Floyd was last seen running along the railroad track in a direction opposite to that which the constables had taken. Floyd had twe pistols in his hands.

Charleston, March 31 (Special).—The situation in Charleston, March 31 (Special).—The situation in Charleston to-day has been more exciting. At an early hour in the morning it was runnored that Governor Tillman was in the city concealed at the private house of one of his few supporters here, but this proved to be untrue. At 6 o'clock the Adjutant-General of the State, who had started out from Columbia last night on a had started out from Columbia last right on a special train to collect the State troops from the various towns on the route to Darlington, reached here. On his train were nine militiamen, all that he could gather. He brought the train to Charleston to pick up the Fourth Brigade, which Governor Tillman had ordered to be ready. Gov-ernor Tillman telegraphed to Brigadier-General Huguenin as follows:

Order out such companies as you think will respond. They must be tested. Answer, B. R. TILLMAN.

This reply was sent to the Governor:

No company of this command will sustain the contabulary in their methods of enforcing the Disensary law. This brigade will uphold and defend he honor of the State, but will not lend itself to oment civil war among our brethren.

HUGUENIN, Brigadler-General.

Then the Governor sent this order:

B. R. TILLMAN, Governor.

No reply has been sent to the dispatch as yet, It may, however, be regarded as certain that the militia will not obey the Governor. Tillman has

The militia in this State are not regularly enlisted, and there remains nothing but a brigade of negro militia in Charleston. No call has been made on these as yet.

The dispensaries at Darlington and Florence have been wrecked, and it is more than probable that other towns will follow suit. Most of the dispensaries were established against the wishes of the voters of the towns. So great has been the excitement here that a conference of leading citizens was held at the call of the Mayor to-day and the following given out:

The situation in the State is one of exceeding gravity. It is of the highest importance to Charleston and to the State that in this crisis the citizens of Charleston shall do all in their power to preserve absointe peace and quiet in the city. We appeal to all good citizens, without respect to political affiliations, to give their efforts in this behalf. Let us for the present, at least, abstain from assembling together in public demonstration.

A telegram to the Richmond and Danville officials from their chief clerk in Columbia says that Governor Tillman has called the attention of the latter to Section 2532 of the General Statutes of South Carolina, giving the Governor authority to seize railroad and telegraph lines in the State when the public safety may require it. He has also requested that the legal strife between the State of South Carolina and the Richmond and Danville Railroad company be forgotten, and that the railroad company be prepared to furnish him with facilities for the transportation of troops, if it shall be necessary. The request will be held in abeyance until the Governor makes a direct demand for the railroad property. The officers of the Atlantic Coast Line in this city have not yet received notice of the proposed seizure of their road. the Atlantic Coast Line of his intention to selze the excessive display of circlets in everyday life,

George H. Ferons, the attorney of the Western Union Telegraph Company, was asked this afternoon to state what methods had been adopted by the Governor of South Carolina in seeking to control the telegraph lines of the State. Mr. Ferons replied:

"The Governor simply notified our manager at Columbia not to accept any messages of an inflammatory character, or any that might increase the excitement in the State, and referred him to section 252 of the statutes of the State of South Carolina. The reply of the Western Union Telegraph Company to the Governor was to the effect that the telegraph company could not act in the capacity of a censor; that it could not undertake to say what messages were of an inflammatory character, and what were not; and that as long as the company retained physical control of the telegraph lines within the State it must receive and transmit all dispatches offered."

The Seventeenth Election District is credited with thirty-one names, when, as a matter of fact, only eleven men are found to have signed the roll. Twenty-six are credited to the Twenty-second Election District, instead of stateen, twenty-four to the thirty-first District, instead of four; six to the Eighteenth District, where not a single voter is found to have registered; twenty to the Fourteenth District, instead of twelve, and so on.

Peter McDonald, the district leader, reported that the Bliss men could get no one to act, while in the Seventeenth District a man named Coon, who was in charge, said he would have to go to "Larry" Lynch, the Tammany district captain, to get men for Monday evening. Mr. McDonald said that in his own district the Bliss men got thirty-five Democrats, among them being men who were Tammany poli clerks at the last election.

INTERESTING BOXING MATCHES

The fifth subscription boxing entertainment of the New-York Athletic Club took place last evening in the gymnasium of the club, which was well filled with members and their friends. Maxwell E. Moore was referee and E. W. Kearney and Arthur J. Moore were judges. Robert Stoll and J. H. Abeel were the timekeepers.

"Connie" Sullivan and Samuel Myers, at 108 pounds, were the first pair on the programme, Neither knew much about boxing, and both lasted Neither knew much about boxing, and both lasted through the six rounds. The judges disagreed at the finish, and the referee awarded the bout to Myers. In the next contest Owen Harney won from Michael Hushes in the sixth round.

James Rose and W. McDonald, at 110 pounds showed much cleverness in their work, and the contest was by all odds the most "scientific" of the evening. The referee gave the contest to Rose. Charles Barnett and Joseph Reilly had a hot fight Mr. Moore finally stopped the match and gave the purse to Reilly.

At 120 pounds James Murphy was easily outclassed by Thomas McGirr. The last match of the evening, between H. Fisher and N. Giynn, was the feature of the evening. Pisher, who made his appearance in the prize ring last fail for the first, mas won many battles in club tournaments since that time. The fight between these two men was extreme y lively. In the third round Fisher got in nine heavy blows on Gynn's nose, and from that point the victory was his.

CROWDS AT THE GAMES.

BASEBALL SHOWS ITS POPULARITY

PRINCETON'S EXCELLENT SHOWING AGAINST NEW-YORK-CLEVER ALL-AROUND WORK BY THE GIANTS-BROOKLYNS GAIN AN EASY VICTORY.

Dame Fortune and the weather prophet are smiling upon baseball, and, as a result, a big crowd went to the Polo Grounds yesterday to witness the battle between the Princeton College and the New-York teams. Fully 3,000 people were present, which is one of the largest crowds that has witnessed a preliminary game in New-York in years. Of course the Giants won, yet the Tigers gave them a pretty stiff argument, the final score being 10 to 2 in New-York's favor.

The Tigers played a capital game in the field and on the bases, and they also batted well. If Princeton's pitchers improve as the season advances Yale and Harvard will have in the Tigers tough customers to handle. "Scotty" McMasters has his men in splendid condition, and they play with a dash and daring which evoked great applause yesterday. The team contains several veterans in King, "Doggy" Trenchard and others, who do much to steady the nine. Little Brooks is a sec ond edition of Murphy, the Yale wonder. His work at short was superb. Otto also played a first-class game, both in the field and at the bat while "Phil" King, as usual, won deserved applause by his clever all-around work. Williams is a promising catcher, and Aultman and Forsyth have in them the making of clever twirlers.

AND THE GIANTS. And as for the Giants, they played ball from start to finish, and the 2,000 people showed by their wild huzzas how they appreciated it. Clark pitched the first three innings. Rusic the second three and Westervelt the last three. And the ovation given the Hoosier wonder when he appeared in the box in the fourth inning was one of the heartlest ever given a player in this city.

Tiernan again led the batting, and Michael J. seems destined to make all the hitters do "hustling" this year. Davis and Van Haltren 'hustling' this year. Davis and Van Haltren also did clever all-around work. Stafford's error, the first scored against any of the home players, was made on a difficult bounder, the throw being high. Clarke was hit for three hits and a run. Rusie for two and Westerveit for two and a run. Wilson caught for three innings and Doyle for six. Harticy's umpiring was first-class.

The home players batted well and they gave Korwan excellent support. Esterbrook and Tredway made the sensational fielding plays.

" The adaptability of the Acolian to orchestral scores will render it attractive to lovers of the highest grades of music." EDOUARD DE RESZKE.

FROM the nature of its construction and the means employed to sound the notes, the music for the Acolian need not be confined to the simple piano and organ arrangements, but is adapted from the full orchestral scores; thus the harmony may be doubled, the melody embellished with flute or horn obligatos; and, aided by the different stops controlling various instrumental effects, the Acolian music possesses a charm only equalled by the concerted efforts of a number of performers. The piano has been called the Epitome of the orchestra; the Acolian is the orchestra

FOOTBALL REFORM IN DEFINITE SHAPE. THE COLLEGE EXPERTS SET FORTH THE RE-SULT OF THEIR WORK-EXCELLENT CHANGES SUGGESTED.

The expert committee, which has been laboring for several months to bring about football reform, and to eliminate the brutal features from the great college game, met at the University Athletic Club, in Twenty-sixth-st., yesterday. The session iasted nearly five hours, and the proposed changes in the rules were agreed upon. These suggestions will be sent to the different colleges for approval, and, as ventilation was also better, and the suffering among soon as they are approved they will be formally adopted. As each of the experts understands the feeling at his respective college, few changes other than those suggested yesterday will be made.

The full committee was present last night, consisting of Walter Camp, of Yale; Dr. W. A. Brooks, of Harvard; Alexander Moffatt, of Princeton; John C. Bell, of the University of Pennsylvania, and P. J. Dashiel, of Lehigh. The suggestions will tend partially, if not wholly, to eliminate the brutal features from the game and encourage more open play-two reforms demanded in the college world as well as among the masses.

The suggestions are practically as follows: The penalty for piling upon men when down will be fifteen yards. In fair catches the man thrown shall be given fifteen yards. Flying and momentum mass-plays shall not be allowed.

Rule 4 deals with the drop kick, and an emphatic effort will be made to encourage this style of After a drop kick for goal on one down, the ball shall be brought back to the 10-yard line and not to the 25-yard line, as heretofore. Insistence upon actual kicks when called for by the rules will be enforced. be enforced.

There will be also a material change in the scoring of points. Instead of a touchdown, with goal counting six points, it will hereafter count only three points. A goal from the field, instead of counting five points, will count only three. A touchdown, failing goal, will count only two points, and a safety one point. In case of a tie the side which kicked the greatest number of goals from touchdowns shall have one point added to its total score. total score.

Delays from any cause shall not exceed three minutes. Only one official representative on each side will be allowed upon the field of play. All penalties will be increased from five to ten yards for offside play and for holding.
